The Administration has raised public awareness of conservation, and the Congress has passed a bill that will offer financial incentives for private industry to build cleaner power plants.

Some 10 million smokers buy the nonsense that the government should stay out of the way and they can keep smoking by the time 100 percent of the evidence is in.

Scientists used to in one wave after another try to awaken us to the growing threat of smoking, but a lot of Americans were skeptical of its evidence.

To serve as responsible stewards of the planet, we must continue deeper atmospheric and oceanic research. But research alone is inadequate. We should get moving to fashioning conservation measures. We'd better build new cleaner, environmentally sound power plants.
